WEST CHESTER STATE COLLEGE

PENNSYLVANIA

FOREWORD

Recorded on these pages are "Dimensions" of academic and social achievement that we have developed during four years at West Chester. To make the most of educational potentialities, we have enlarged our outlooks in width and depth. As Freshmen, we began our college careers apprehensively. Gradually, exposure to ideas and opinions of professors and fellow students has given us the opportunity to enlarge the scope of the world around us. It is hoped that each of us has mastered flexibility of perception characteristic of the educated person. The variety of subject fields and areas of experiences have contributed to the heights we have attained scholastically. For Seniors, graduation and its many associated activities is an extension into our future way of life. These "Dimensions," illustrated in the following pages, constitute the motif that has been selected for the 1965 Serpentine.

"Frosh Regs" have long been a tradition on campus awaited eagerly by upperclassmen and somewhat despised by the Freshmen. Traditionally, the class of dink-bedecked Frosh are "put through the mill" during Regs, the purpose being to acquaint them with West Chester history, to instill in them a loyalty for the school they will be attending for the next four years, and to give upperclassmen the chance to assert their seniority over a lowly bunch of invading children.

deepen
campus*

Out of doors the weather is still warm enough for a sweater or a trench coat, yet that sticky summer sun is not around to make things unbearable. At night games, it even becomes cool enough for a blanket and some hot chocolate. Posters lashed to the trees cheering on our teams and homesick Freshmen beating a path to the post office let us know that fall in all its glory is back at the West Chester campus. Even indoors, fall shows its face in the eagerness each of us has at the start of the new semester. Somchow, studying now seems casier and better than it will later when warm weather comes back and thoughts start to wander.

Life . . . is far from dormant here

Life in its numerous phases is not lacking anywhere on campus. Whether it's serious down-to-earth studying-type life or whether it's partying in the dorm halls-type life, it isn't difficult to find. The library plays an important part in the serious academic life we all came to West Chester to indulge in. So does the typewriter and, whether we're the two-finger typist or one a little bit faster, we must buckle down seriously to get those reports done. But making a date is part of life, too, on the fun-side. And getting ready for it, we let the serious life slide a little knowing we can pick it up tomorrow. A little studying, a little snooze, a gab-session, a telephone conversation, a quick once-over with the shaver. These are all part of the life we enjoy.

High spirits prevail and the pace is mad and merry

West Chester has homecoming weekend just like other colleges. Yet, it really isn't quite the same. Oh, there's the usual crowd of alumni, the homecoming game, and the dance. It's about the same in that way. But during Rampage, West Chester shows a pride that is only West Chester's and an excitement of the big weekend that only West Chester could have. There's a game, too, but those are our guys out there winning to cheers of the crowd and the cheerleaders. The parade reflects talent with floats showing real care and preparation, the Senior float particularly this year. Dorm decorations and Basic round out Rampage — our homecoming weekend.

Christmas

and permeates*

Christmas is steeped in tradition around West Chester. There are the ingenious dorm decorations put up in snatches between classes and typed term papers with the final effect well worth all the effort. There's the Carol Service, long awaited by College and community alike. And there's the Christmas dance where couples enjoy good music, good conversation with friends, and the anticipation of the wonderful holiday season to come. Then back in the dorms, parties, singing, and the tearing down of all the hours of work put into decorating. But there are several weeks of parties and fun to look forward to that make the campus activities somehow very warm and very exciting.

People . . . who need people

"People who need people," the song says, "are the luckiest people in the world." And whether it ranges from serving the hungry crowds during a football game half-time or to art lovers strolling leisurely through the fall clothesline exhibit of student-faculty handiwork — everywhere there are people — there is excitement, laughs, ideas, company. Hayrides with their songs, hayfights and plain fun need people. Even snuggling under a blanket during a chilly game needs people — the more the merrier. Some things require solitude: studying, deep concentration, thinking. But most of us don't like being alone; around West Chester we need not be. Companionship and friends are in abundance, as are people who help us enjoy pleasant memories of West Chester.

varying degrees*

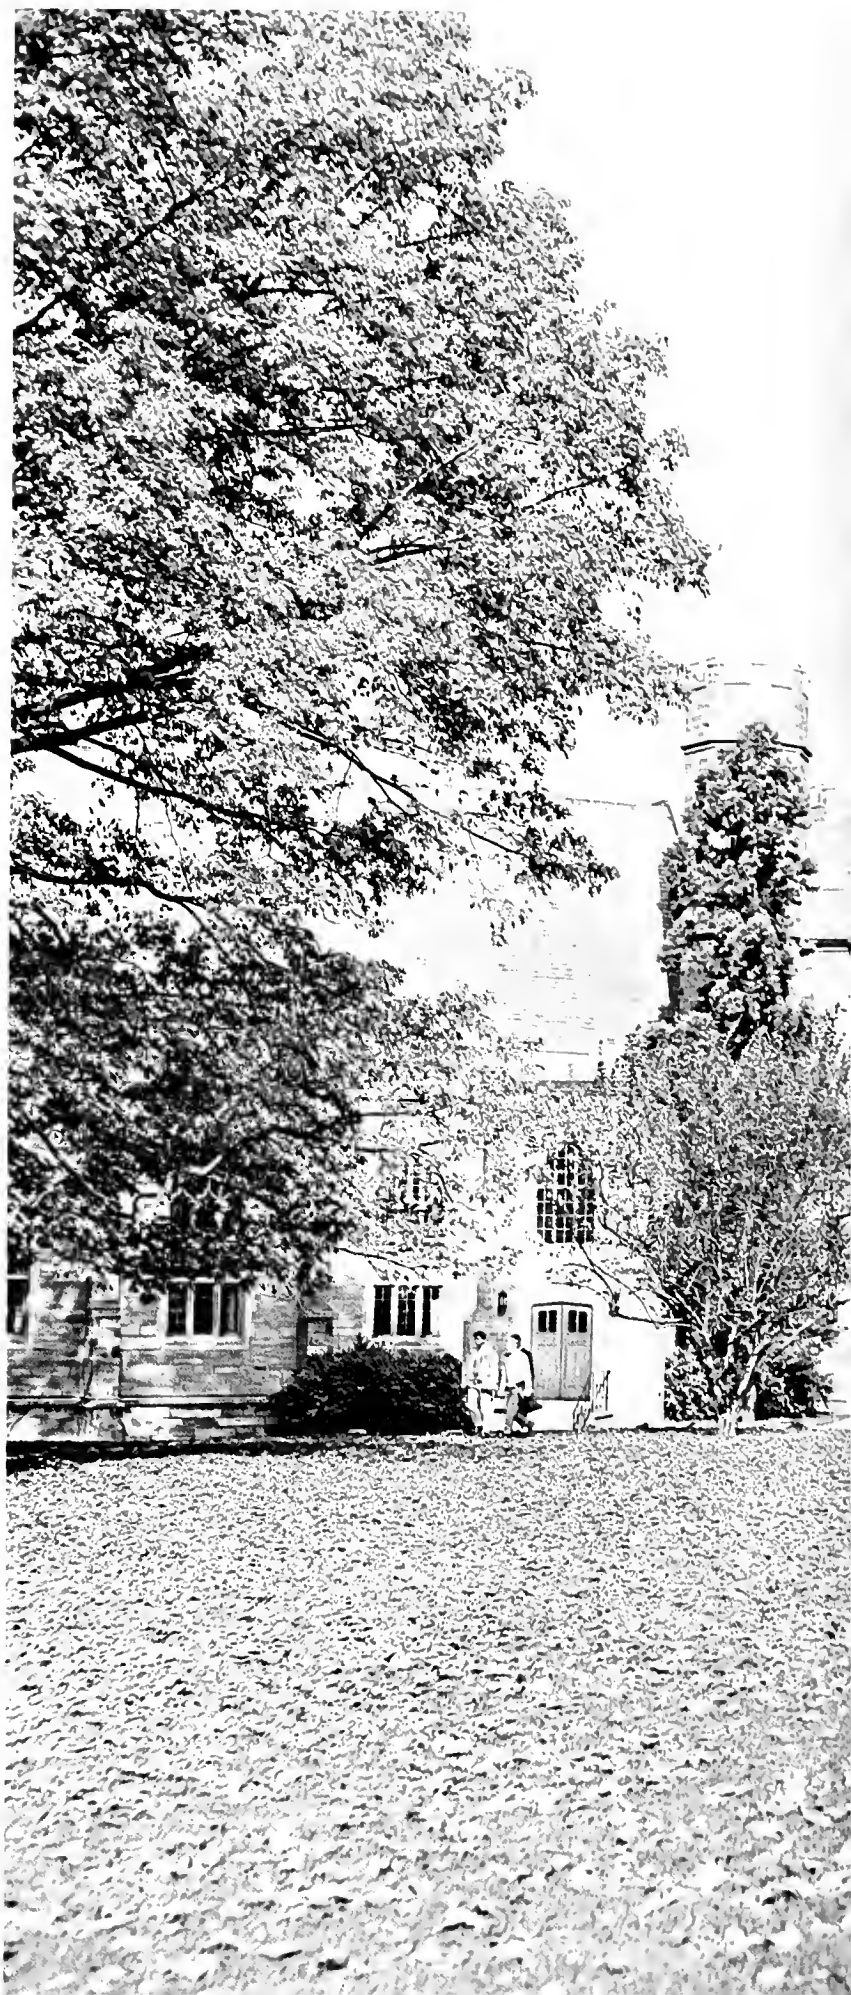

The recognition for outstanding academic achievement is important for students no matter at what college. West Chester is no exception. During the four years' search for knowledge, students have learned to make full use of materials including the textbooks, movies, records, and maps as classroom aids. But outside, it's often better to relax and think things through. The text will be there when it's needed, but often a friendly discussion can give more learning than all the textbooks in the world. Yet, there's always the need for concentration — down-and-out effort to make study an aid and college years a valuable experience.

Places of significance

Interesting places and buildings appear all over campus – from the Dem School and its youngsters livening up campus with their play to Main Dorm, one-time focal point of the campus. In its setting of grass and trees, Main, despite its years, is such a part of this college that it is hard to imagine West Chester without it. Recitation Hall, oldest building on campus, is still a distinguished member, even though it provides laughs to those familiar with its rather ancient history. Yet, West Chester is not all past. New Science and Dining halls show modern aspects of the campus. They add youth to West Chester as the old buildings add tradition. We have a long path open in our future. Past is all around us, but the future keeps springing up to mingle with it.

Seniority ... as always prevails

In the fall of the last year at West Chester, the Seniors, Class of '65, approach scholastics in different ways. Many are enthusiastic to get in that last bit of learning before the time runs out. Many hours are devoted to reading, studying, comprehending. But college is memories, too, and fond thoughts of traditions, Senior picnics, football games with near-wins and romps, serving lines, and bull sessions. It is accomplishment, and it is admiration from others for what we've learned to do. College is many things—many different things to each one of us. But finally, college is the pleasant realization of a now-completed education.

As spring approaches fancies turn to warm weather, budding trees, a warming sun, and plans for the future. Frequently a pause in lunch permits a contribution to that discussion of whatever happens to be important at the moment. Everywhere, life on campus takes a turn for the out-of-doors. Somehow courses don't seem as pressing when the sun shines and the days are so pleasant. Couples, aware of no one, hear only the brush of new leaves, and a faint call of Tomorrow.

Time has become long in hours of light

ADMINISTRATION

Administration, the backbone of an academic community, is the factor which has given direction to these years in college. The maturing of young minds, never an easy task, is the task that the administration and faculty face as they attempt to develop a directed pursuit in us. The students come in search of wisdom and truth, and they receive it as a result of the devotion of these men and women. By the examples and teachings which mold these characters and enlighten these minds, a direction is slowly fulfilled. Truth strengthens the life of each student and is found in each association that he makes.

President

Dr. Earl F. Sykes was appointed President of West Chester State College on August 9, 1962. His placement was preceded by a year as Acting President and twenty years on the administrative staff of the college. Dr. Sykes is a graduate of Montana State University, where he earned a B.A. in Social Studies and an M.A. in Educational Administration. He got his Doctorate in Educational Administration of both public schools and colleges at the Columbia University Teachers College. Dr. Sykes has also served as Supervisor of Student Teaching, Director of Placement Office, Dean of Men, and as the Dean of Academic Affairs.

The task of College President can by no means be considered an easy one. Responsibilities are great and obligations are many. Dr. Sykes works long hours at his desk to assure a job well done.

Deans

Dean of Academic Affairs

Under the realm of Dr. Walter J. Gale's authority are the many aspects of a student's academic life. Scheduling, placement, admissions, curriculum, and library are among his many administrative duties.

Dr. Jack A. Owens and Mr. William R. Benner are the vital mediators between the students and the administration. Social and athletic events, student employment and the infirmary are part of their job.

Dr. Kenneth R. Widdall is the college's financial expert and liaison officer between Harrisburg and West Chester. Most important at the present time is his connection with the campus expansion program.

Dr. Jack A. Owens and Mr. William R. Benner
Dean of Student Affairs and Assistant

Dean of Administrative Affairs

Dr. Paul B. Ross, Director of Admissions, conducts all of the affairs necessary for the selection of prospective students at the college. Through him, applicants have their first contact with West Chester.

All transactions concerning the financial aspect of the college are conducted by Mr. Everett E. Shaefer, Business Manager. The duties of comptroller, revenue agent, and budget officer are under his authority.

Administrative Staff

The amiable figure of Mr. Emil H. Messikomer, Director of Undergraduate Affairs, is a familiar and reassuring symbol that the college administration is eager to help students meet their academic problems.

Mrs. Helen Shippee, the friendly and efficient Registrar, has the responsibility of keeping the records and transcripts of all college students intact. She sees that records are promptly available when needed.

The never-ending process of directing the placement of Senior student teachers and of assisting in securing permanent positions in the educational field for graduated students is delegated to Dr. Mark Evans.

Every educational institution is concerned with public opinion. At West Chester, Dr. William P. Hought is the possessor of the important job of public relations, requiring efficiency in skill and diplomacy.

Mr. Robert Reese is West Chester State's very capable Athletic Director. It is his responsibility to supervise all athletic equipment, transportation, publicity, and to schedule all major athletic events.

In May, 1962, the State Council of Education approved the college's Liberal Arts Curriculum. This program, under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Slagle, has grown significantly in the few short years of its existence.

Dr. W. Glenn Killinger carries out important duties as Dean of Men. Both his sincere efforts and outgoing personality are necessities for the success of this job, which he has been fulfilling since 1935. Besides serving as advisor to men students on campus, Dean Killinger finds time in his busy work schedule to perform the duties of head coach of the baseball team.

Dean of Men

Dean of Women

Dean of Women, Miss M. Jane Caton, is well known to students at the college. Miss Caton tries to foster and encourage an atmosphere of intellect, leadership, and social responsibility among all of the women students. She provides guidance and advice which encourages the development of academic, social, moral, and cultural growth for women during the school year.

Mr. Robert M. Mitten, a member of the Physical Education Department, maintains the position of Assistant Dean of Men.

Familiar to women students are the Assistant Deans of Women: Miss Bernatz, pictured here, and Mrs. Ingham, not present.

The position of Resident Advisor is of vital importance to the well-being of the women students here at West Chester. These women are officially in charge of the housing facilities, enforcing all college regulations, and overseeing the proper functioning of equipment. Sitting left to right are Mrs. Mary B. Dietz, Mrs. Mary Payne, Miss Kitty Boyle, and Mrs. Rose Hale. Standing left to right are Mrs. Carrie Patch, Mrs. Julia Wienandt, Miss Margaret Egger, and Mrs. Mary B. Ayling. Mrs. Dorothy Smith not present.

Resident Advisers

The Slater staff adds spice to life at West Chester in more ways than one. Their western style barbecue and authentic Hawaiian Luau are products of their vivid imagination. Lawrence Hall with its modern dining facilities and student commons will soon be the center of all campus activities. Seated - Mr. O'Doherty, Director. Standing - L. to R.: Mr. Moore, Mr. Fokas, snack bar manager, Mr. Melackriou. (Not pictured: Mr. Peacock.) These men are responsible for the well-managed efficiency of the dining hall.

A.R.A. Slater

Book Store Staff

Shelves of books, paper, and various other supplies can now be easily found in the newly renovated College Bookstore. The bookstore has become one of the brightest spots on the West Chester State College campus. The management of this bookstore is under the direction of Miss Catherine Finegan, Mr. Frank E. Peterson, Mr. David Jackson, Mrs. Mary Phillips.

Post Office Staff

The post office is always an extremely busy place after each class when a swarm of students converge on it to make sure "that" letter or package has arrived. Scores of letters and packages find their way here each day. These two congenial ladies, Mrs. Rodebough and Mrs. Connell, sort the mail and cheerfully serve both resident and commuter students daily.

Nurses

The infirmary at West Chester, directed by Mrs. Futer and Mrs. Marion, provides professional treatment for all common illnesses contracted by the students. The friendly attitude and efficiency displayed by the staff gives the students a feeling of security on campus. Insurance claims for athletic and common injuries are also transacted through this office.

Art

Attempting to help the individual develop a more appreciative outlook toward the fine arts, the Art Department offers both interesting and challenging subject matter in this field. Painting and sculpturing classes and other similar courses provide opportunities for intensive study. Sketch Club, which meets weekly, gives the more interested students added time for out-of-class study. Members of the staff include Mr. Hallman, head of the department; Mr. McKinney, Miss Simmendinger, Mrs. Ring, and Mr. Gabriel.

The Demonstration School includes elementary grades one through six. Children of the college faculty and community residents may be given opportunity to attend this school. College students are encouraged to observe classes for teaching methods to aid in their future teaching careers. Student teachers are assigned to practice here during the year. Faculty: Mr. Chalick, Miss Wolfe, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Morgan, Mr. Cartright, Principal; Mrs. Mathias, speech and hearing clinician; Mrs. Di Marco, Miss Bayne, and Mr. Grafton.

English

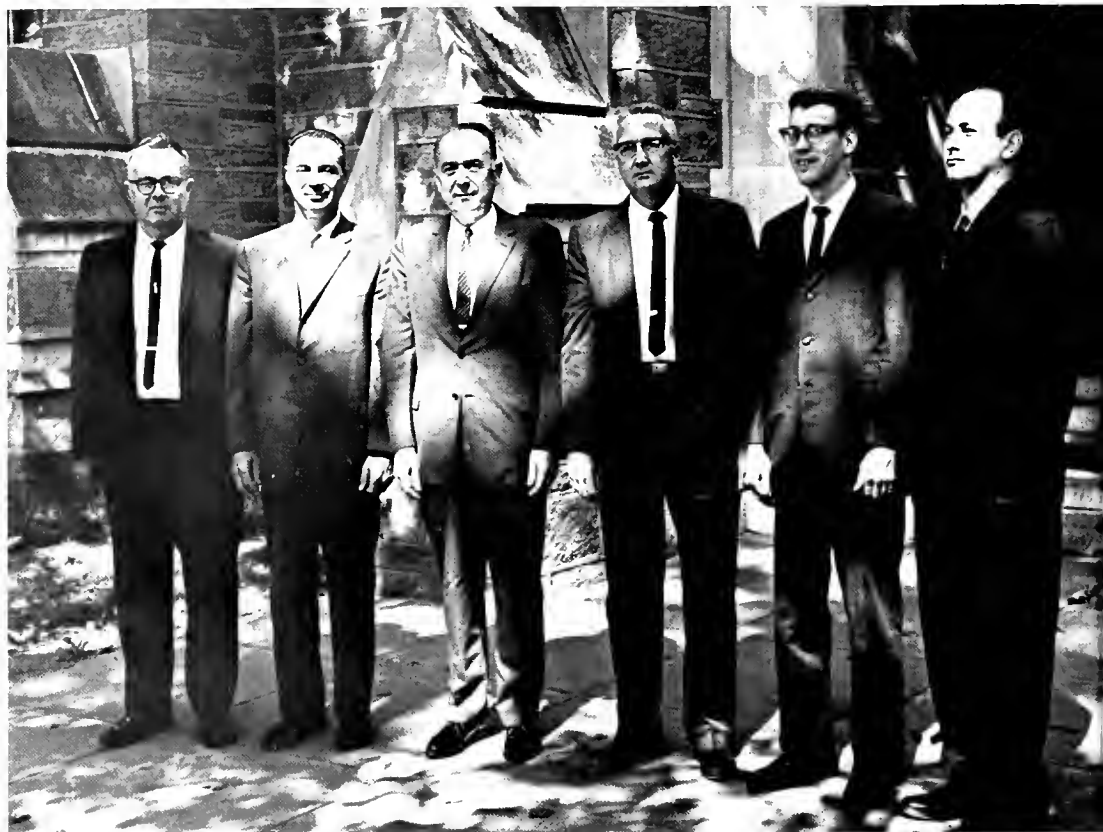

Department of Language offers a comprehensive selection of foreign language courses not only to majors in the field, but also to those in varying curricula who desire to elect a language. The faculty includes: 1st row: Dr. Rodríguez, Miss Roseman, Dr. Roberts, Department Head; Mr. Coulet du Gard. 2nd row: Mr. Parker, Mr. Glumac, Mr. Kulhanek. 3rd row: Mr. Serna and Mr. Lombardi. Subjects offered cover grammar of the language and endeavor to develop insights into the culture and literature of the land.

Languages

Geography

Approximately twenty courses are offered by the Geography Department during the regular school term. In addition to general courses, students elect specialized subjects. Instructors make efforts to combine issues and problems of today with all courses. High-ranking Geography majors have opportunity to join the college chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon, national honor society. Faculty members are Dr. Monroe, Dr. Langdon, Dr. Keimard, Head of the Department; Mr. Hawthorne, Mr. Bielski, and Mr. Bucksar.

Health-Physical Education Department: 1st row: Dr. Sturzebecker, Department Head; Miss Coates, Mr. Yoder, Mr. Lorback, Mr. Black, Mr. Norris, Mr. Kolacki, Mrs. Cooper. 2nd row: Mr. Long, Mrs. Taylor, Mr. Davis, Miss Margerum, Mr. Heim, Miss Powhus. 3rd row: Mr. Goodwin, Miss Gros, Miss Schaub, Mrs. Cottrell, Mrs. Guinta, Miss Yanisch, Miss Kyvallos. 4th row: Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. Trnka, Miss Reed, Mrs. Rokus, Dr. Cottrell. 5th row: Dr. Twardowski, Dr. Youmans, Dr. Cochran, Mr. Furlow, Mr. Mitten.

Physical Education

Library

Personnel are available to aid students in acquiring their choice of the vast collection of periodicals, pamphlets, and books in the Francis Harvey Green Library. A juvenile room and curriculum laboratory are at student disposal. A music department of the library is located in Swope Hall. Employees are Mr. Leubking, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. McCartney, Mrs. Hampson, Miss Conbeer, Mr. Hall, Head Librarian; Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Carmichael, Miss Collicott, Mrs. Rivoir. Students from the college are employed on part-time basis.

Mathematics

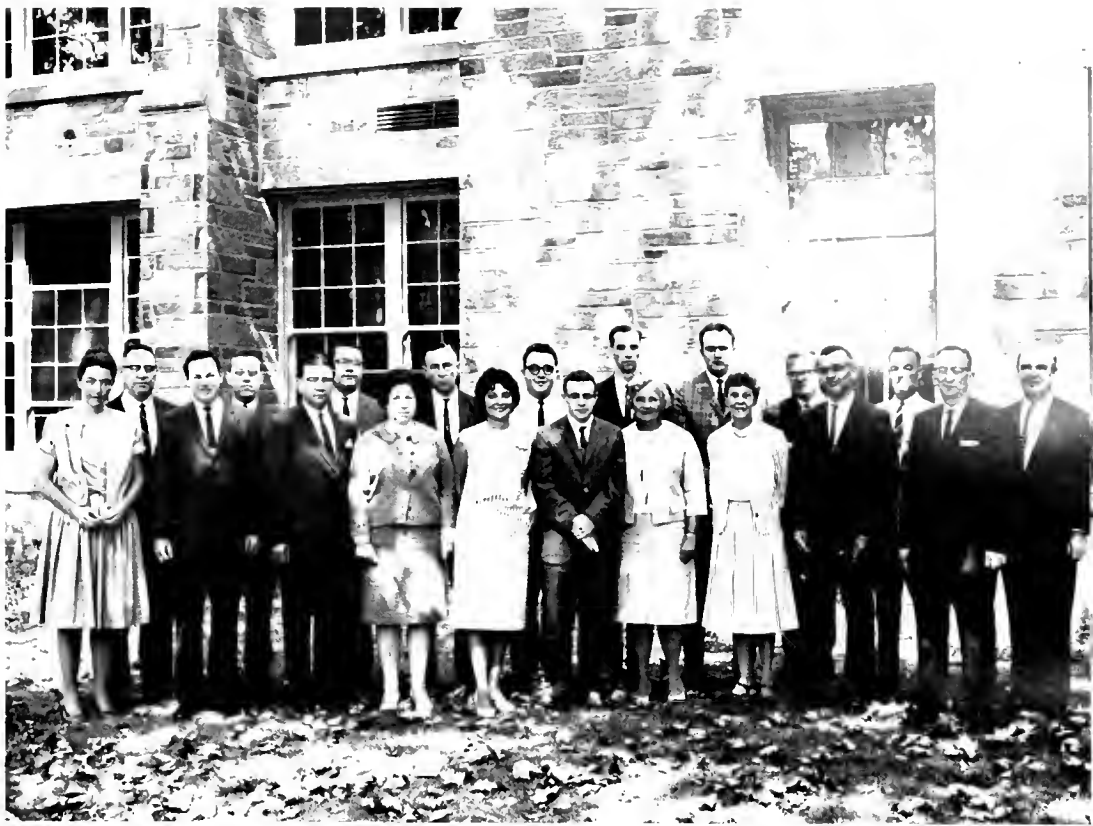

Several new members have been added to the Mathematics Department this year. Ranging from foundations of mathematics to such courses as topology and differential calculus, subjects in this field vary according to both difficulty and area covered. Faculty members are: 1st row: Mrs. Hunter, Dr. Filano, head of the department. 2nd row: Mrs. Stanley, Mr. Weiss. 3rd row: Mr. Sgambati. 4th row: Mr. Munshower, Mr. Brenton, Mr. Milliman. Absent from the picture are Mr. Mandelbaum, Mr. Morrill, and Mr. Love.

ORGANIZATIONS

Organizations are as much a part of a college education as are the courses. They help to add to the student's well being and probably, as some of us believe, to the maintaining of sanity! Since all work and no play makes the student dull, many of us find satisfaction in joining a club in our major field or in a field where our hobby lies. Professional stimulation can be found in the sciences, languages, and arts. Enjoyment finds its way into meetings divorced from straight lecture or laboratory sessions, and relaxation is needed by each of us to get the most out of our four years in college.

Editor Joanna Sittler, associate editor Janice Surrick, and secretary Carol Mammis consult Mr. William Landrum, advisor.

Joanna Sittler has proven herself to be an efficient and capable leader in her task as editor-in-chief of the Serpentine.

Serpentine

The 1965 Serpentine staff has gone "all out" to make this year's book one of the finest to come out of West Chester. This year's theme, "Dimensions," encompasses all phases of our four years here at West Chester: our academic studies, our amusement, our class activities, our sporting events. It covers the depth into which we have entered our college career to prepare us for our future work. It covers the width of knowledge to which we have been introduced and the broad outlook we have gained at college.

The senior section staff, headed by Nancy Polulack and Rudy Karkosak, is responsible for scheduling the senior pictures as well as for organizing the lists of activities forming the directory and planning lay-outs for the senior section.

The tedious task of preparing copy is diligently executed by the staff of typists under the supervision of Thelma Snyder. Even under pressure of time, they work energetically to prepare write-ups and copy in order to meet schedule deadlines.

Lois Neely (center), business manager, with her assistants, Ann Snyder and Linda Mercier, directs the sales and publishing of the Serpentine.

The tasks of business manager are efficiently handled by Lois Neely.

The Serpentine literary staff, under the direction of co-editors Kathy Walter and Arlene Trojak, has the task of writing captions and copy to recapture the campus life pictured throughout the yearbook.

Photography editor Dave Garloff carefully selects those pictures which best represent many important people, places, and events of the year. Art editor Sandra Smalstig advises Betty Zeller, a member of the art staff, concerning the type of design which co-ordinates the various sections of the Serpentine.

The assignment of lay-outs, write-ups, scores and pictures is given to the men's and women's sports staff. Co-editors Fred Hamil, Lew Young, Margie Young, and Davey Forrest supervise the efforts of this staff in producing a well-rounded coverage of athletic teams and sport events.

Quad Angles

This year's Quad Angles staff has proven to West Chester that it is capable of reporting a high grade of news and important events of interest to the reader. In addition to a fine sports coverage, the Quad includes items of public interest about the college's building programs, its Lecture and All-Star Series, its gossip, its humorous side and also its serious, academic side. In the Quad Angles the reader may be sure to find news of a worthwhile nature to keep him abreast of the goings-on at West Chester. Distributed twice a month, Quad Angles is one of the publications of which the West Chester State College can be proud. It is truly a worthwhile part of our school.

Carol Stankeiwicz, co-editor of the Quad Angles newspaper, is about ready to begin coverage on another important event to go in the paper.

Bill MacCarthy serves West Chester and Quad Angles in his capacity as sports editor.

The Quad Angles distribution staff plays a vital role in the smooth functioning of the campus newspaper. They are responsible for distributing finished copies to students of the college in addition to sending out by mail copies to readers with subscriptions.

Lew Young appears to be completely absorbed in reading the sports news reported in the latest issue of West Chester State College's Quad Angles.

The latest edition of Quad Angles brings sports news, gossip, important happenings at the college and much information for all readers.

Distributing finished Quad Angles is a long job, but one nonetheless important. Here, Nancy Moore uses the floor as her desk in getting new editions ready for distribution.

The Quad Angles staff has a big job keeping track of news and important events of interest around the college. They must be alert and on the job constantly to keep the Quad Angles an informative and current newspaper in its reportings, and they are to be commended for their fine work in keeping students informed.

Ram's Horn

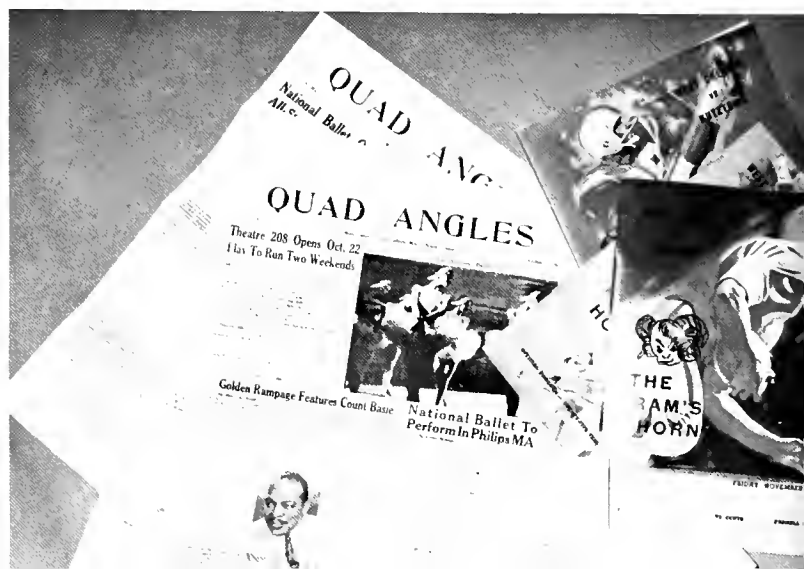

Lew Young continues his position as the editor and business manager of the college's official athletic magazine, The Ram's Horn, published by the Varsity Club, presents pictures, schedules and general information about various teams on campus.

The West Chester State College's official athletic magazine, the Ram's Horn, is published before each football game to give readers important team rosters, pictures, coaching news, and general news about the college's athletic happenings. Under the worthy editorship of Lew Young, the magazine has continued its lengthy tradition at West Chester. Individual publications cost only twenty-five cents and readers will agree that the magazine is well-worth its price for the sports information given.

"You can't tell the players without a program" rings out near Farrell Stadium at football time. For only twenty-five cents, spectators can purchase The Ram's Horn, West Chester's athletic magazine, containing lineups and other sporting news.

Literary Quad

Scattered about within our student body is a group of extremely talented young writers. Frequently the creative writings of these students are found compiled in one volume of work. The Literary Quad, published under the auspices of the Quad Angles newspaper, is a collection of original plays, stories, and what-have-you written by the more literary members of this campus. Anyone may contribute and all selections are welcomed by the editors.

Handbook

The Freshman Handbook, distributed to all incoming Freshman students, serves as a guidebook of do's and don'ts for our new campus members. Under the capable pens of Linda Mercier and Victoria Waller, this year's Handbook is no exception to the fine tradition the book has established. Containing all worthwhile information about campus life, tradition, and rules and regulations, the Handbook plays a big part in indoctrinating Frosh at West Chester.

Vickie Waller and Linda Mercier join forces to compile the 1964 Freshman Handbook. Linda, editor of the publication, is spending her second year in working on the book. Vickie, presently a Junior, will take over the editorship next fall.

Carol Stankiewicz, through her capacity as co-editor of the Quad Angles newspaper, is considered in charge of the Literary Quad, West Chester's literary magazine. Any student may contribute his original writings to be published in the book.

Sources of information, regulations, sports, humor, policies, and just about anything else can be located in any one of the college's three big publications — Quad Angles, Student Handbook, and Ram's Horn. These literary works are each well edited and managed by talented members of the student body under the helpful supervision of interested faculty members.

Elected officers of the newly-formed Intracollegiate Governmental Association are V.-Pres. Sue Spink, Sec. Joy Paxton, Treas. Norm Blagbrough, and Pres. Bob Robertson.

I. G. A.

I.G.A., Intracollegiate Governmental Association, is a new addition this year to West Chester State College's campus. Previously, student government on campus consisted of two individual bodies: S.G.A., Student Government Association; and S.A.A., Student Activities Association. Each of these had individual functions to perform, individual officers, and individual meetings. Frequently there was conflict between them over some issue, and there was the chance of important issues being defeated by one or the other of these organizations. So it was when last year the student body voted to abolish these separate entities and combine their functions into one student government organization. As a result, the new governing body is highly effective and it unites the students under one "rule," so to speak. Bob Robertson, newly-elected President of this organization, is doing a fine job to bring the administration and student body into closer work and co-operation.

Progress means change. This year the former Student Government Association has been replaced by the Intracollegiate Governmental Association. This better organized and more effective governing body will enable students to work for the unity and best interests of every person and organization at the college.

Men's Day Council

With pleasant, spacious new headquarters in Dining Hall, the Men's Day Council continues in its earnest efforts to insure non-residents not only a knowledgeable concern for the college's welfare but also an active participation in campus events. An annual commuter party highlights the year. D. Ereole, President; Dr. Benner, Advisor.

By enforcing high standards of group living, the Men's Resident Council aids each male student in achieving his intellectual and social potential. It is the governing body of both the dorm and off-campus housing. President Lew Young, Advisor Dr. Killinger, and elected counselors form its nucleus.

Men's Resident Council

Consisting of members of Dormitory Council, Day Council, and the Big-Little Sister Committee, the Advisory Board is the co-ordinating bond of Women's Government. 1st row: M. Landis, M. Boyer, R. Martin, Pres. C. Kress, C. Corbin, S. Frambes, 2nd row: Vice-Pres. L. Schartner, D. Forrest, B. Figlioli, C. Ammon, J. Luff, 3rd row: Treas. S. Stauffer, Sec. S. Neilson, S. Bair, S. Sittler, U. Patula, L. Overstreet.

Spectators at the Big-Little Sister Picnic find the costumes of three Freshmen to be laugh-provoking.

Campus life is often bewildering to freshmen. Through the efforts of the Big-Little Sister Committee this problem is alleviated. By assigning each freshman girl to an upperclass woman, friendships are formed and experiences are shared. Co-chairmen Sally Frambes and Bev Figlioli plan such social activities as the annual picnics and bonfires to give an opportunity for the women of the college to meet one another.

Women's Day Council, under the leadership of President R. Martin, endeavors to make campus life enjoyable for commuters and to create a close relationship with residents.

Women's Government

Women's Dorm Council, led by President Candi Corbin and Dayl Smith, Secretary-Treasurer, strives to provide West Chester women with the best possible living conditions, a voice in collegiate government, and acts as an intermediary between the Deans of Women and the co-eds.

Alpha Phi Omega

Formally recognized on West Chester's campus this year, Alpha Phi Omega is an organization composed of scouts, former scouts, those interested in scouting, and all those willing to be of service to their campus, community, and nation. Although recently established on West Chester's campus, the national organization is known for its service, fund-raising, and charitable activities. Officers are P. Houghton, President; J. Carlioli, S. Tutko, Vice Pres.; Art Roche, Sec.; R. Lubking, Treas. Sponsors are Mr. Peterson, Mr. Cope, and Mr. Bucksar.

Neithian

At one of their annual faculty teas, Mrs. Bliss is guest of the Neithian Club. This club, named for the Egyptian goddess of wisdom, is founded on the high ideals of truth, honor, wisdom, and service. The club of future elementary teachers is led by President Carol Crooks and Vice Pres. Shirley Bair with sponsors Dr. King and Mr. Studenmund.

The Music Educator's National Conference is composed of members of the music curriculum. Under the expert guidance of Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty and Mr. Charles Sprenkle, faculty advisors, the MENC members work on experiments in new areas of music such as Electronics in Music. The student members also participate in trips and talent programs of various types.

M. E. N. C.

S. P. S. E. A.

Student Pennsylvania State Education Association, or S.P.S.E.A., is a professional organization here on campus which provides its members with a close contact with educational news, happenings, and changes. The student participant is assured of being kept up-to-date on his profession and well-informed. This student organization keeps as its purpose the encouragement of teaching.

Members of the Criterions for this year are: 1st row: E. Kirkpatrick, D. Amdt, C. Blum, L. Mauro, G. Ritter, E. Burns, and W. Stine. 2nd row: J. Sullivan, director; G. Gauger, W. Campbell, B. Herring, Joel White, John White, G. Gillespie, H. Yorgey, J. Soete, R. Demkee.

The College Criterions perform at various social functions on campus including almost every important dance and many informal mixers during the year. Under the leadership of James Sullivan the band plays music which may be either smooth and dreamy or lively and zesty. The versatility of this group is demonstrated by its participation in the annual Villanova Intercollegiate Jazz Festival and its own jazz concert presented each spring. Jim tries to obtain the best possible results from the "Crites", as they are commonly known at West Chester State, through many long and tedious hours of rehearsals. These long practice sessions and extra effort help to make all selections of high quality. All arrangements are chosen to suit each appearance.

Criterions

Improvisation is the test of a good performance; the Crites have certainly met this aim.

A jam session gives members of the Crites an opportunity to practice and to pick up some new techniques in the process. Much time and hard work go into planning a performance.

Statesmen

The popular Statesmen are, 1st row: D. Miller, J. Buchanan, C. McWilliams, W. Ritter, and J. Kratz, 2nd row: C. Terry, J. Weinhouse, T. Flocko, R. Kline, M. Cochrane, and K. Rainey, 3rd row: W. Printz, S. Tutko, H. Henderson, R. Choate, and E. Vogel.

Frequently seen adding support to the brass section are Steve Tutko and Mike Cochrane.

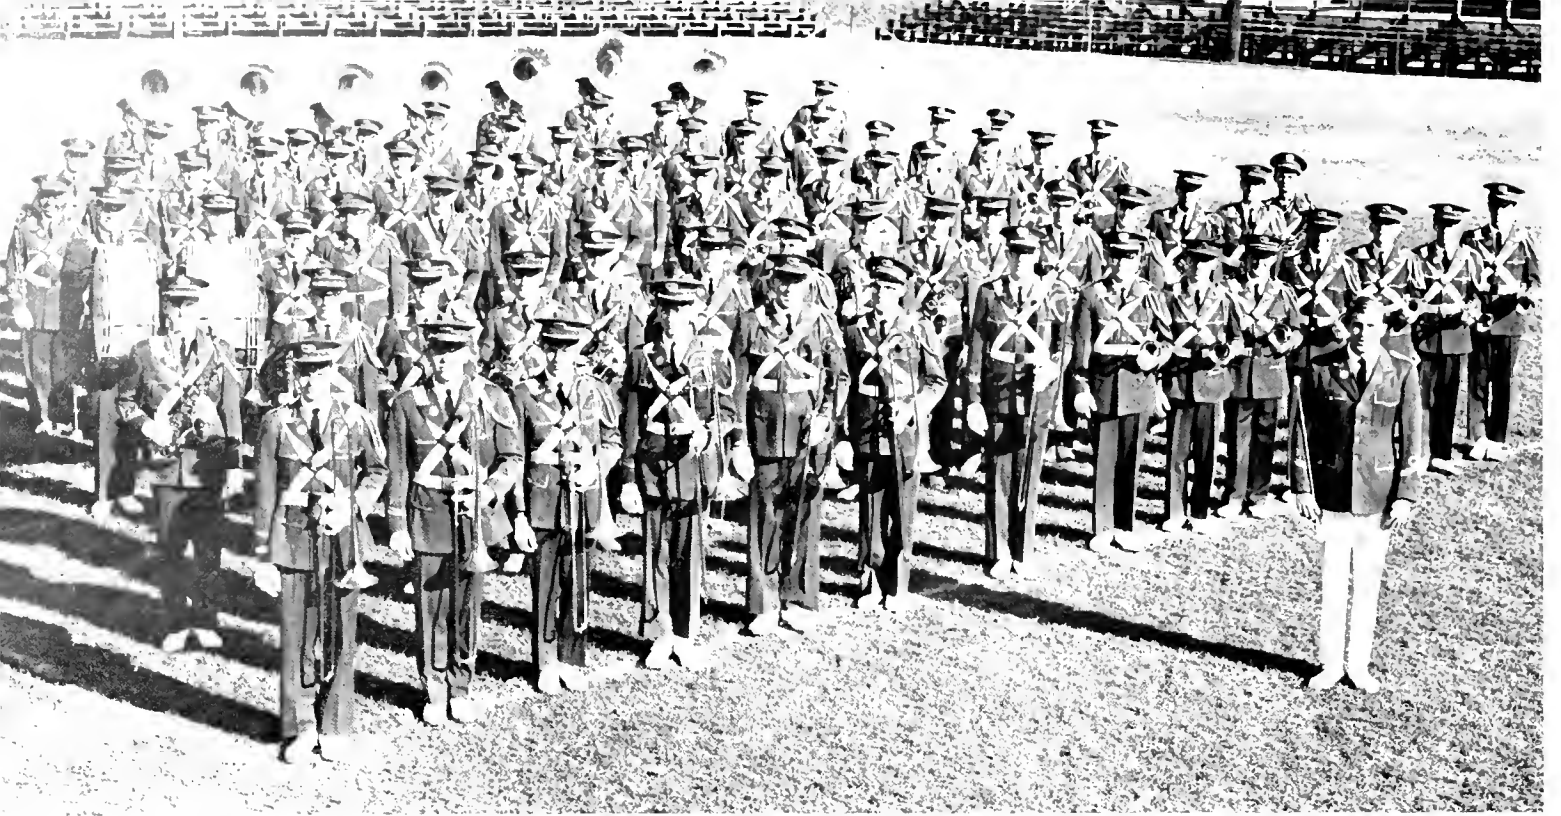

Brass Ensemble

The Brass Ensemble is composed of approximately twenty-five members. These students, under the able leadership of Mr. S. Powell Middleton, perform with the Symphony Orchestra. This group spends much time in preparation for its concert of music for brass.

Trombonist Gary Gillespie practices a passage of a selection which is to be presented.

Composed of approximately eighty men students from all curriculums, the Marching Band is shown here in block formation at Farrell Stadium. This organization, which is under the expert and efficient leadership of Mr. Paul Carson, Director, and Mr. Richard Boerlin, Assistant Director, is known as one of the top, finest precision and marching bands in the East. The band performs at all half-time home football games and frequently marches in local parades throughout the school year.

Spirit is one of the keys to enthusiasm, and the Marching Band has an abundance of both. Here William Houck and Henry Yorgey show such spirit as they march.

Marching Band

After many long hours of practicing the music, precision drills, and formations, the Marching Band is ready for its first half-time show of the football season. This organization, composed entirely of men from all of the curriculums on campus, is one of the highest spirited groups at West Chester State. The band is widely known for its great variety of half-time routines. The drum major, David Freed, leads the band very adeptly with his baton through its artistry on the field. Besides performing at football games, the band marches in local town parades and plays at many other functions on campus.

Drum Major David Freed, Senior, leads the marching band as they start off the Golden Rampage Parade. He also guides the band during half-time performances.

Equal importance is placed on each section of the Concert Band. Shown are two members of the French horn section during band rehearsal.

Men and women who make up the Concert Band spend many long hours in preparation of band selections which will be presented at various state band festivals throughout the year. Although this organization has no string instruments, their melody and sweet tone is imitated by the woodwind section. Melody is also carried by the vibrant brass section, which is also depended upon for added depth and color. The percussion section supports all these instruments with the basic rhythmic patterns necessary. All these elements, when combined in the proper proportion, give a perfect effect to the expression being played. As a result of facilitating such proportion, the group has developed the ability needed to play Sousa marches, show tunes, and symphonic favorites which make up their repertoire. Mr. Paul Carson spends many long hours with the band as they prepare for the annual state band festival and helps the students who have been selected to represent West Chester State at this annual professional event.

Concert Band

Under the direction of Mr. Paul Carson, the Concert Band diligently practices the music of well-known composers at regular weekly rehearsals. This organization, as part of the Music Department, represents the college at various high schools and colleges. In addition to this, it plays at college assembly programs and presents an annual spring concert each year. Members are chosen by means of auditions.

Always waiting for the baton to give the down-beat are the members of the Symphony Orchestra. Under the expert direction of Mr. S. Powell Middleton the seventy-five members participate in the annual Christmas presentation of the Music Department along with the College Choir. The Orchestra also presents its own Spring Concert in which they perform works by many prominent classical and contemporary composers.

Symphony Orchestra

Mr. S. Powell Middleton gives the down-beat and another rehearsal of the Symphony Orchestra is under way. It does not take long for the members of this musical organization to realize that their long hours of rehearsal are very rewarding.

For a successful performance each individual section of the orchestra must do its part to make harmony and tone exact.

The Symphony Orchestra's programs include the many brilliant presentations of a serious nature. The members of this group are chosen through audition from all curriculums and provide accompaniment for Senior Student Recitals which feature vocal and instrumental majors who are capable of performing with the full orchestra. Members also compose the ensembles for the concerts of the College Choir and the student opera productions. Besides their own annual Spring Concert, the Symphony Orchestra members travel to several of the high schools in the vicinity to perform for their student bodies. The orchestra spends the better portion of the first half of the year doing sight-reading of as much standard symphonic literature as their busy schedule will allow.

Sinfonietta

A small elite group of music majors make up the College Sinfonietta. Dr. Constantine Johns gives this organization his capable guidance during the long hours that are spent in preparation for their concert and trips to near-by schools.

Patricia Clauser and Margaret Caruso of the string section are pictured here practicing one of the difficult passages with several members of the woodwind section to gain intra-sectional harmony for a melody.

Being a small group, the College Sinfonietta has added great flexibility in the type of music it can play. Compositions included in their repertoire are Baroque, Classical, and Modern. This group plays music composed for small orchestras and chamber groups. The reduction in the size of this organization, which rehearses weekly, gives them smaller sections resulting in the need for good harmony and expression. Various members of this group present solo and chamber works at different times within the college year, for which some of the group provide support.

Woodwind Ensemble

Under the able direction of Mr. Roy Sweet, the Men's Chorus gives depth and solidity to the two major choral performances on campus — the Christmas Carol Service and a spring concert. The organization also gives several off-campus programs during the year. Although the Freshman and Sophomore members of the Music Department are required to join this choral society, men with vocal ability from all curricula are invited to audition for admittance into this spirited college group.

Men's Chorus

Women's Chorus

Women's Chorus is composed of all Freshman and Sophomore women of the music curriculum. Weekly rehearsals and the vigorous leadership of Miss Jane Sheppard prepare the chorus for the two annual performances in which it participates on West

Chester's campus. These include the Christmas Carol Service and a spring concert. By performing in these programs the students not only prepare for their life work in music, but gain personal satisfaction from vocal expression of melodic tunes.

At present the College Choir consists of one hundred twenty-five Junior and Senior members of the Music Department and a few auditioned vocalists from other curricula. Directed by Dr. Arthur E. Jones, the choir performs in several yearly concerts, including the Christmas Carol Service and a spring concert at which Verdi's Requiem was presented.

College Choir — Glee Club

Weekly rehearsals prepare vocalists of the Glee Club for many programs.

Students from all curricula except music are invited to join the Women's Glee Club. With Miss Lois Williams directing them, the members plan several festive events, including caroling during the Christmas holiday season. The club also performs in the Christmas Carol Service and in a spring concert. These events are traditional college affairs.

I. V. C. F.

One of the campus' four religious groups, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, began its existence almost a century ago. Now it is to be found on nearly all American college campuses, aiding students to gain spiritual growth through the study of Jesus Christ and his teachings. Many Christian men and women find informative and enlightening meetings a necessary part of college.

S. C. A.

The Student Christian Association, S.C.A., meets on Thursday evenings to provide its members with thought-provoking religious and ethical discussions and problems. Along with the other three campus religious organizations, one of S.C.A.'s chief aims is to give students a spiritual outlook on life to enrich their existence in the materialistic world in which we all have to live.

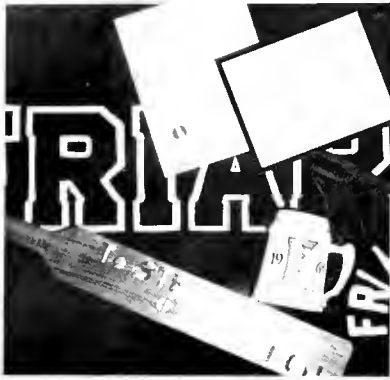

Newman

Founded nearly fifty years ago upon the educational ideals of Bishop John Newman, Newman Club has worked to foster spiritual, social and intellectual growth among Catholics on the secular campus through their ideal, "Cor ad Cor Loquitur" or "Heart Speareth to Heart." Reverend McOsear, Chaplain; Dr. Albert Filano, Adv.; J. Carfioli, Pres.

Hillel

Hillel is the religious club for the Jewish students on campus. Under the direction of Mrs. Shur, the spiritual and social life of members is enriched by the presentation of weekly programs of a cultural and religious nature. This year's agenda includes mixers with neighboring Hillel Chapters. President of the Hillel organization is Marilyn Cohen.

Characteristic symbols of the Friars Fraternity are insignia, mug, and pin.

Friars

Activities of the many-faceted Friars Society span community welfare, educational aid, social life, and fulfillment of its main function as a service organization for the college. This year the Friars are aiding the Child's Day Care Center in its need for a playground. It is also giving two scholarships, presenting the Blue and White Dance, and assisting this state college on numerous occasions. It can truly be said of President R. Fumanti, Secretary S. Brotschul, Treasurer B. Jenner, members and pledges that this honorary society typifies the ideals of friendship, leadership, and character.

Alphites

Paddles, sweatshirts, and scrapbook signify the new Alphites organization

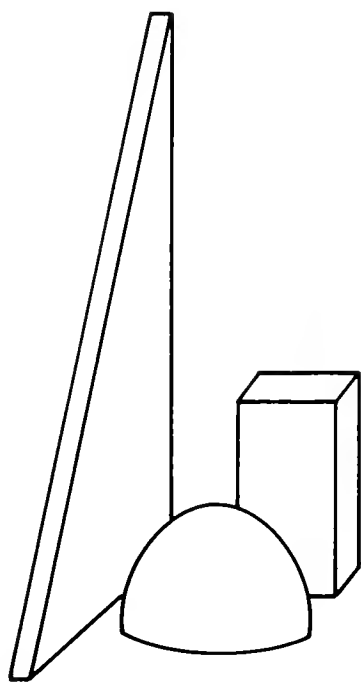

Move over, Friars! The Alphite Society, a service group established six years ago, was recognized this year as a campus organization. Composed of outstanding women from the college, Alpha Sigma Phi fulfills the need for a feminine counterpart to the Friars Society. Off-campus service of this group includes assistance at local centers and hospitals. A scholarship will be offered annually by the Alphites to a deserving student. Seated, left to right, are Service Chairman M. Crosson, Vice-Pres. L. Schartner, Pres. J. Brodman, Sec. C. Boyle, Treas. D. Sommerville, and Pledge Mistress N. Ackermann.

Varsity

The Varsity Club is made up of those men athletes who have earned two varsity letters. Besides welcoming the visiting teams, this club, by selling programs and refreshments at athletic events, earns the money to buy blazers for our team members.

Valkyrie, a service club for women Physical Education majors, is unique to our campus. The club sponsors such activities as a Christmas party for atypical children, the Valkyrie show, and several bake sales. The current President is M. Kirkegarde.

Valkyrie

Majors'

Under the leadership of Jerry Snyder, Elaine Johnson, Judy Wetzel, and Tom Jackson, Majors Club, the largest club on campus, forms a liaison between faculty and students. In professional, demonstrational, and national conventions, the student gains insight into his role as a future health and physical educator.

Sets

SETS, Student Electrical Technical Staff, is a recently recognized club organized to arrange and manage lighting, sound and scenery for all the dances, shows, and programs presented by campus organizations. The members function as a group under the auspices of Mr. Bemmer, Advisor, and D. Hamm, Manager. SETS perfects the stage behind the scenes.

Math Honor Society

Those mathematics majors who excel in their field of concentration are recognized at West Chester since the establishment of the Mathematics Honor Society in the fall of 1962. Students selected for membership in the society have completed eighteen credit hours in mathematics, and have maintained a "B" average throughout. Mr. Morrill is the faculty advisor to the group; President of the society is Kenneth Welsh.

Geography Honor Society

English

Harry Truman, Pearl Buck, and Archibald MacLeish are only a few of the authors presented in the Autograph Library. The English Club presents an annual display of Shakespearean Folios. Faculty advisor Dr. Bailey assists the club in the greater appreciation of the world's outstanding literary works by planning a meaningful program of many varied discussions and speakers.

Under the supervision of Mr. Kulhanek, majors and students gain knowledge of the language and cultural aspects of Germany through the German Club. The members of this organization have established various activities in which they acquire a deeper and closer view of the country. The modern day life and people of Germany are presented in films, lectures and exhibitions.

German

Sponsored by Mr. Parker and M. Coulet du Gard, faculty members of the Foreign Language Department, the French Club consists primarily of French majors. Scheduled several times each month, meetings include various discussions and question-and-answer periods concerning life and culture in France. Also, several films are shown during the year. Preparing for French Week in February, club members publicize the event both on campus and in the community through a variety of projects.

French

Spanish

Music, colorful slides, lectures, discussions present to members of the Spanish Club an opportunity to broaden their knowledge of the Latin American countries. Students who have had the experience of studying in Spain and La Universidad de Las Americas, Mexico City, describe the people, places, and customs which they encountered during their days in these countries.

Astronomy — Physics

Undertaking the opportunity to broaden their insight in the field of science are the members of the Astronomy-Physics Club. Advised by Dr. Rickert, they seek to correlate their curriculum with the club through practical and interesting experiments and through the application and discussion of their projects.

Under the guidance of their advisor, Dr. Reynolds, the members of the Chemistry Club partake in the less theoretical aspects of the subject. Through various media such as films, field trips, lectures, and discussions, the members widen their scope of knowledge. Pres., W. Still.

Geography

The Geography Professional Club provides numerous field trips and weekend excursions to enrich the club's varied program. Such activities make up a major portion of the interesting goings-on of the organization. In addition to the trips, Geography Club offers a practical side in its tutoring service, its student weather station, and its extensive geological labs.

Young Democrats

The Young Democrats Club, one of our major political organizations on campus, provides members with up-to-date study and discussion of politics and government on the national, state, and local level. Its members study voting trends, candidate qualifications and political reasoning. They follow up studies with polls and mock elections prior to major elections.

A CTIVITIES

The activities provided here at West Chester are almost without number. Nearly any area of enjoyment can be found for the student wanting to "get away from it all" – from Little Theater productions by talented actors and actresses from campus, to the evening Lecture Series of a more serious nature. All-Star programs provide cultural settings in which students can broaden their outlooks. The Junior Show allows those of us with varied talents, not only in acting, but in makeup and costuming, to participate. Dancing enthusiasts feel at home during the proms and the January and Spring Cordials. Finally the holiday seasons with the carol singing and bright decorations lend themselves to extra-curricular activity schedules crowded into the busy four years at West Chester.

Jim DiBiasio, Bill Morris, Helga Kraus, and Barry Jenner provide the necessary talent and acting ability for making Little Theater's production of Eugene O'Neill's play, A Long Day's Journey Into Night, a very worthwhile dramatic effort.

Gloria Baker, one of the many outstanding members of West Chester's Little Theater group, portrays here a scene from Greek author Euripedes' play, Alcestis. Fine talent, a flair for artistry, and love of drama aid the group's presentation.

Little Theatre

The West Chester State College's Little Theatre group opened its own theater in Recitation Hall last year. "Theater 208," as the new facility is called, is the setting for many excellent plays by noteworthy playwrights of our century and of past centuries. The members of the group, all aspiring young actors and actresses, are characteristic of the talent, perseverance, and creativity found on this college's campus. Several major productions each semester provide the students of the campus with a fine background for cultural development in the arts. Productions are open to students, faculty, and the community free of admission charge.

Members of the east of the West Chester State College's Little Theater players re-enact a scene from a Greek play, Alcestis. This gripping play is typical of the high caliber of writing we witness today in the remnants of Greek civilization. This college is extremely fortunate in having such a fine group of aspiring actors and actresses on the campus.

Alpha Psi Omega, the National Acting Fraternity, boasts nine talented members from West Chester State Campus' Little Theater acting group.

Jim DiBiasio, member of West Chester's Little Theater, acts a scene in A Long Day's Journey Into Night.

Talent, promise, creativity, and extreme ability characterize the Little Theater acting group present on West Chester State College's campus. These nearly-professional young actors and actresses produce and act in some of the finest plays ever to be written. We can afford to be proud of this fine organization.

Bill Morris and Helga Krauss find solace in each other's company during the Little Theater's production of A Long Day's Journey Into Night.

Barry Jenner and Bill Morris re-enact a highly dramatic scene from A Long Day's Journey Into Night, one of Little Theater's fine portrayals.

Truly vivid portrayals of real-life characters are only a part of the talent which comes from the gifted members of West Chester State College's Little Theater group.

Alcestris, one of the remaining Greek plays by Emipides, provides students with the talent of the college's Little Theater players and the culture of the Greek Theater.

"Spoon River", the adaptation of Edgar Lee Master's Spoon River Anthology, featured Gil Turner who provided excellent musical showmanship to the script in the form of singing folk songs and playing the banjo.

Dr. Harold Shapely, an internationally famous astronomer, spoke on "Exploring Outer Space" at the Philip's Foundation Lecture Series on September 30. He has a distinguished career as a brilliant scientist and presently is Professor Emeritus of the Harvard Observatory.

The spectacular Llords' "International" has provided captivating and amusing adult entertainment all around the world. Daniel Llords uses his talent in art, music, drama, engineering, designing, and directing to single-handedly present his marionettes in ingenious performances.

Lecture Series

Judith Anderson, Drew Pearson, Edward Teller, Archibald MacLeish are only few of the noted personalities who are featured in the Philips Lecture Series. The William Pyle Philips Lecture Foundation brings to this campus lecturers who are celebrated authorities in the fields of literature, science, and world affairs. This series is informing, awakening, and entertaining. Free admission is offered to faculty, students, and community members. Mr. Philips, the benefactor, has provided the student body of this college with great opportunity to enrich their cultural background. This is truly a chance for all students to applaud today's leaders.

Talent, grace, and precision are only three of the many qualities with which the National Ballet Company enhance the performance of "Swan Lake," the opening program in the All-Star Series of four. Throughout the entire ballet production, a spellbound audience experiences the thoroughly stimulating effects of a superb cultural production.

All-Star Series

Swedish-born Sixten Ehrling, recently elected conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, leads the organization in a sparkling production which includes a wide variety of musical interpretations.

A most amazing listening experience is presented as Nicolai Gedda, internationally famous tenor, enraptures the audience with tremendous talent and charm, bringing this year's series to a thrilling finale.

At the age of 25, British pianist, John Ogden captivates the capacity audience with his musical presentations, exhibiting a myriad of breath-taking techniques and talents.

CARNIVAL!

Somber melodies sung as Craig Rishel portrays Paul and vivacious routines combine to make "Carnival" a show full of tears and laughter.

"Love makes the world go round" is a lasting theme in many hearts. "Carnival!" had a magical story, magical music, and magical performers. The Junior Class Show was the result of untiring efforts. "Bucky," William Morris, backbone of the production, was the talented and dedicated director. Jay Hammond, Production Manager, combined efforts with the technical crew. Music and dancing is accredited to David Freed and Jacqueline Bishop. "Carnival!" involved strenuous rehearsing; but it developed a closely knit cast and crew. To remember the performance is to remember a delightful and moving experience. It was a night filled with hope and hysteria and with animation and syncopation. "Carnival!" was more than a mere musical; it was a unique experience which will be a joy forever.

In a brilliant portrayal of Lili, Jo Ann Forte captivates the marionettes (from the left), Marguerite, Horrible Henry, Carrottop, and Reynardo, with her melodic singing of the memorable tune "Love Makes the World Go Round."

"Bluebird" Nancy Coble provides colorful entertainment with a spirited dance done to the tune "Kommen."

Bob Fumanti, as Marco the Magician, appears engrossed in rehearsal of his song "With a Sword and a Rose and a Cape." He is proficiently accompanied by the four Roustabouts: (from the left) Ed Williams, Charles McWilliams, Rip Kline and Eric Austin. Later, Marco and the Roustabouts lead into a dance routine.

B. F. Schlegel, played by Charles Terry, relaxes with a few drinks as he listens patiently to the frustrated but riotous "Humming" of Rosalie, who is quite vividly portrayed by Joy Paxton.

Golden Rampage Weekend displays itself elegantly at the semi-formal dance Saturday night in the field house. A crowded floor sets the stage for dancing to the music of Count Basie. The World's Fair's opening in 1964 offers an appropriate theme for the evening.

The last decorations are strung. We await another Rampage Weekend.

The crowd is obviously pleased with the entertainment of Count Basie.

The decoration committee helps to make the Golden Rampage dance more enjoyable by working industriously to create a romantic atmosphere.

One of the quieter moments of the week-end finds the Rampage Queen candidates and their escorts enjoying a leisurely dinner at the head table. A royal feast is had by all as the anticipation of Rampage Queen continues to fill the air.

Christmas

Pat Hudsko relaxes and enjoys the sparkling atmosphere of soft lights, good food, and pleasant conversation found at the college's annual Christmas White Dinner, held this year for the first time in the new dining hall and student center.

The festivities of the Christmas holidays culminate with the traditional White Dinner Dance. Enjoying the punch during intermission at the dance are Mrs. J. Owens, Mrs. E. Cottrell and Dr. Cottrell. Students and faculty join in this event.

Ed Flack, who was honored with the position of soloist in this year's Carol Service, does a splendid job of singing "O, Holy Night" before an entranced audience caught up in the joy of Christmas season.

The fragrance of flowers and scented perfume fills the air at the annual semi-formal dance following the White Supper. Before the dance begins, senior David Leithman presents Laraine Beam with a pink carnation.

January Cordial

An exciting evening is anticipated by Carol Vaux and her escort Donald Gantz as they arrive at the General Washington Country Club for the January Cordial, an affair attended by Senior students and their dates.

Soft music and a slow dance gives Seniors time for reflection of their past three years of college life. Is it possible that time can fly so fast? The short months between January and May are all that remains.

Part of the January Cordial's success can be attributed to the fine variety of music and songs played by this able group, The Pajama Tops. Swing, slow, and rock and roll selections fill the air and provide appeal for all types of dancers who consistently crowd the dance floor.

A table surrounded by smiling faces depicts the mood of the January Cordial. Departing Seniors cheer mellow farewells to classmates and faculty members. Spirit runs high on the dance floor, but friendly conversation is plentiful for those who choose to relax and watch.

Passing over the trestle gives Tom Juenger, his date, Sandy Leuchak, and Walter Lutz an elevated view of the "Visions of the Orient" at the Spring Weekend Semi-Formal. A colorful Oriental garden is the vibrant scene of a delightful evening sparked by Lionel Hampton's music.

Soft music and a decorated pagoda create a dancing mood for couples.

Spring Weekend

Spring Weekend revolves around a delightful panorama of "Visions of the Orient." The well-decorated Field House on Saturday night exemplifies the theme perfectly in a setting of pagodas, trestles, and the zestful blooming of a Japanese garden. This enchanting scene plus the music of Lionel Hampton's Orchestra coincides to create a suitable atmosphere for a romantic evening. Friday night, candle-lit wine bottles upon red checkered tables illuminate the dancing in Erlinger Gym. Comic laughter fills the Sunday afternoon as couples compete in skill contests. Another West Chester weekend ends, but for some the memories will long remain.

Lionel Hampton appears engrossed in his music as he and his orchestra provide soft tones for "Visions of the Orient."

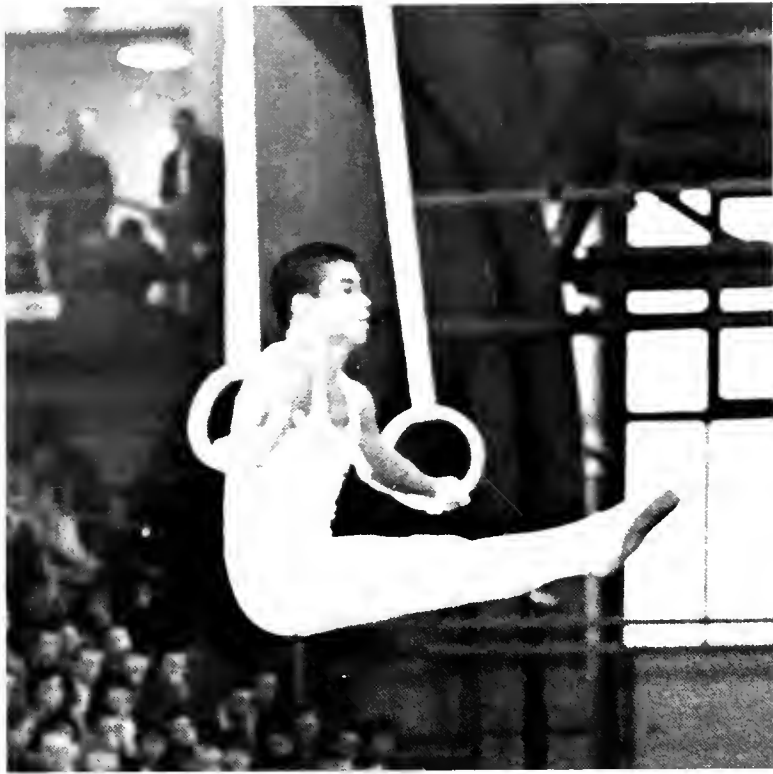

Games of skill set off Sunday afternoon of Spring Weekend. Here, Sue Klingler and John Rowland win a three-legged race.

ATHLETICS

Athletics are as much a part of the West Chester atmosphere as is the academic side of the college. The realm of sport offers participants and spectators alike the opportunity to release their inner tensions in a wholesome and acceptable manner. Many students on leaving the college will recall not their favorite professors imparting to them the wisdom of the ages but the West Chester fullback bursting through the line and turning upfield. But athletics are more than entertainment; a West Chester sporting event, whether on the inter-collegiate or intramural level, is a personal proving ground.

This is Makoto Sakamoto, the 1964 all-around gymnastics champion of the United States, as he executes a difficult L-cross on the rings.

The grace of sport is readily apparent as Ralph Rice, West Chester's springy backcourt performer, glides upward to deposit two more points.

Sport Special

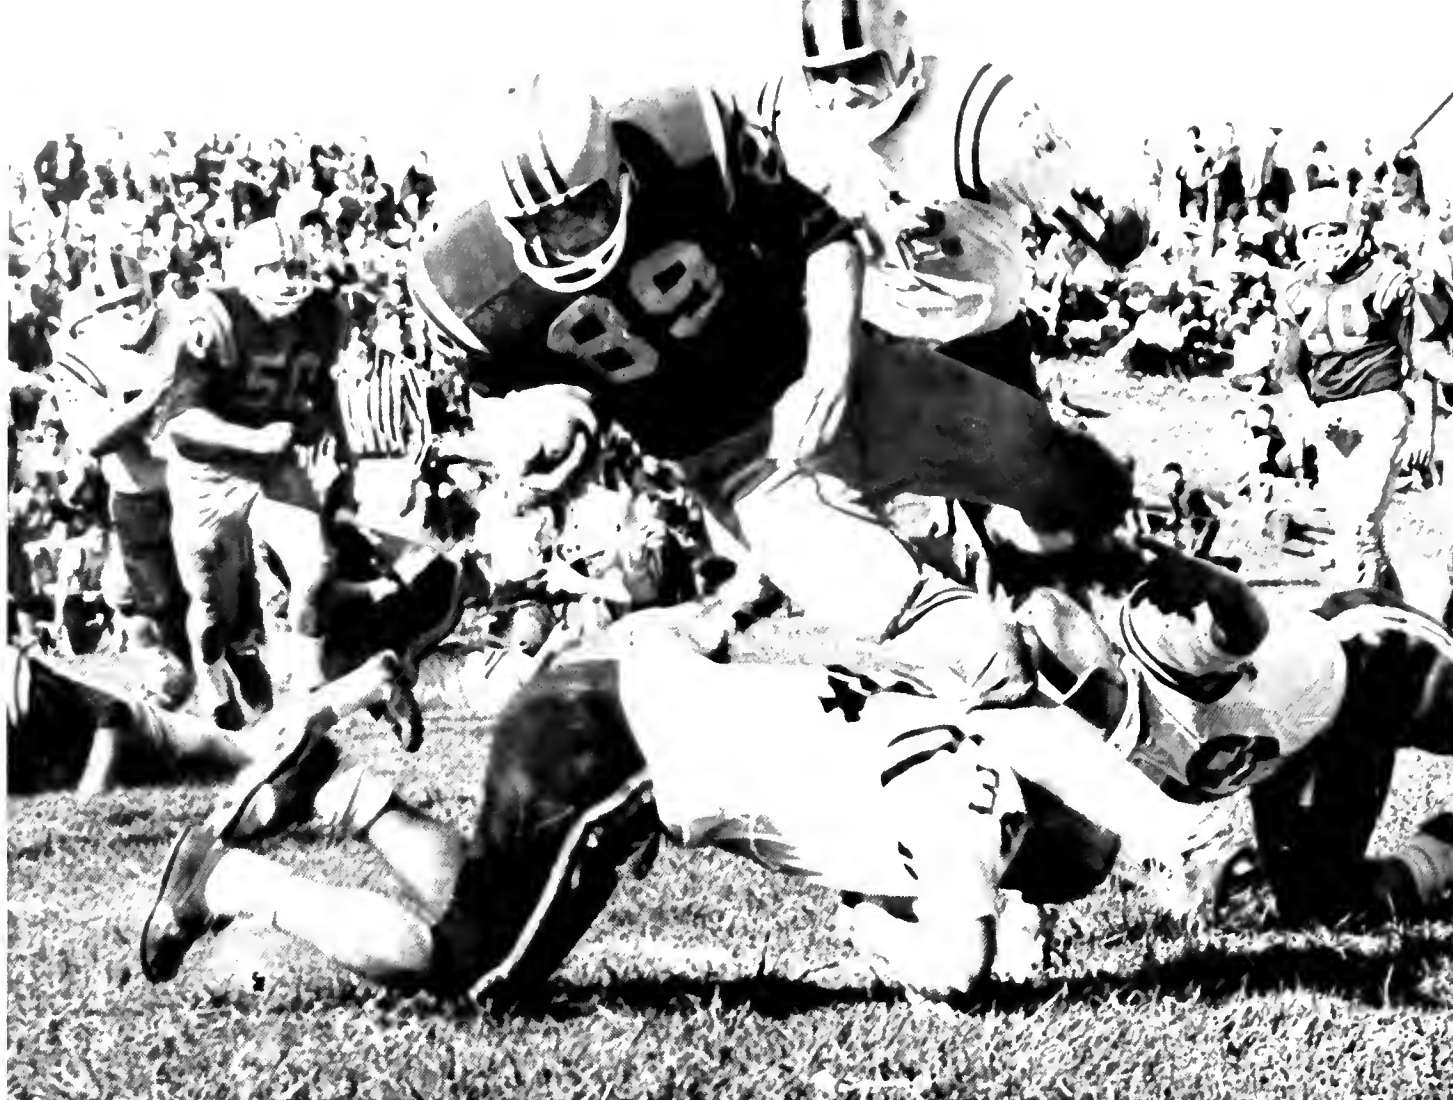

Many team sports require quick and unerring thinking, and football is no exception. In the picture above, Terry Eberly, West Chester's fine quarterback, darts through a gap in the East Carolina line and heads upfield after dropping back to pass and finding his receivers covered.

The spirit of ancient Greece seems to fill the air around Wilmington Field as members of the Women's Archery Club beam in on the target.

Hollinger Field House is the scene of this exhibition by the women's 1964 all-around gymnastics champ, Marie Walther, on the balance beam.

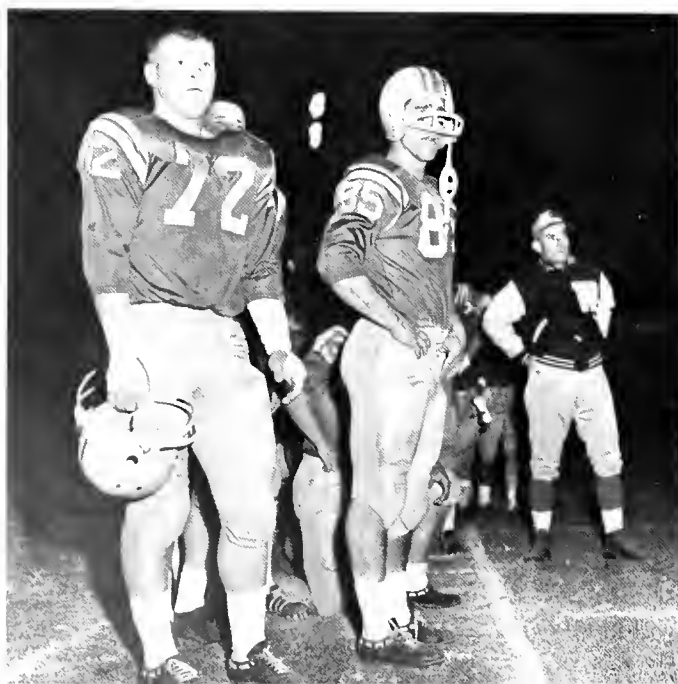

Despite a string of injuries which necessitated Coach Jim Bouders using four different quarterbacks during the year, the West Chester passing game was as sharp as ever. In the picture above, Dan Ferguson, the Rams' fine receiver, has just taken a short Jim Holt aerial and turned upfield, only to have his legs cut out from under him by a Millersville defensive back. Watching Ferguson are Holt, 20, and Ram center Bill Fleming, 50. The Rams beat Millersville by a 33-7 score.

Football

Surveying the action are trainer Tom Keffler, Dave Robinson, Roger Aughenbaugh, and Head Coach Jim Bouders, the man most responsible for West Chester's success. He and his fine aids once again pushed squad organization and morale to the peak.

The West Chester football team played two seasons in 1964. The first was made up of its first two games against East Carolina and East Stroudsburg. These two fine teams both defeated the Rams, East Carolina by 33-7 and East Stroudsburg by 13-0. But the Rams refused to fold and defeated Millersville the following week in their normal convincing manner, announcing the beginning of their second 1964 season. In the final six games West Chester opponents scored a total of 20 points, thanks to the stalwart play of Tri-captains Bill Iacone, Roger Aughenbaugh, Mike Mokriski, and the rest of the defensive squad. Included in the Rams' string of six straight victories was a particularly rewarding triumph over Ithaca in a game marked by clutch line play and an electrifying touchdown pass from Jim Holt to Roger Aughenbaugh. Tackle Scott Kugler and fullback John Florence played vital parts in the success of West Chester's crushing running game.

Number 45 is West Chester's Lou Neebe, and he has picked up four yards on this maneuver against Millersville. But the Marauders have four hands on Neebe, despite the fine block by Dan Ferguson, at left. Neebe was one of several underclassmen who improved steadily.

Teamwork is the name of the game, and the Rams show how it is done above. Fullback John Florence slants off-tackle through a gaping hole created by Bill Schwalm (right), Dan Ferguson (on ground), and Scott Kugler (not shown). Blocking is Steve Laughman.

l. to r.: D. Whitmore, Coach Hank Goodwin, Head Coach Mel Lorback, Coach Gene Kolacki, W. Lutz. These men will long remember the hours of running, running, and more running on the practice field. It seems well worth it in reviewing the record; the Rams defeated many opponents, some of whom seemed to have better personnel, with a tireless pressure defense.

Soccer

The West Chester soccer team experienced a rather trying, but interesting, campaign in 1964. It was trying because the Rams suffered four losses and two ties and for the first time in years failed to receive an invitation to participate in the NCAA Tournament. Nevertheless, hustle, speed, spirit, and the unique inspiration of Coach Mel Lorback carried the Ram booters to a very respectable 7-4-2 record against the best collegiate competition in the East. The fact that no West Chester opponent scored more than three goals is testimony to a fine defense. A little more offensive power could have changed the record to 13-0, for each of the team's defeats was by the margin of a single goal. Highlights of the season were thrilling victories over the University of Pittsburgh, Howard University, and Army, three of the nation's best. Halfback Bill Wolfe, goalie George Jungels, and wing Chase Beatty were outstanding performers throughout the season and were honored by being selected for the district All-American team. They exemplify the team's spirit.

The superior condition of the West Chester team was never more evident than against tricky Howard, whom the Rams ran ragged and defeated by a 1-0 score. Here, Bob Lieb draws a head on the ball before booming it toward the Howard goal.

The aggressiveness and hustle of the Rams is epitomized by Bill Wolfe as he surprises a Howard lineman with this tricky – if illegal – piece of defensive work. Howard's entire roster was made up of skilled foreign players, but defense such as this and Bob Hunter's overtime score won dramatically for West Chester.

Goalie George Jungels rushes from his cage to intercept this threatening Penn State corner kick. Bury Snader, Bill Wolfe, and Jeff Lowry stand ready to clear the ball or cover for Jungels should he miss.

Cross Country

The West Chester cross country team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons ever. Coach Hawthorne's runners massed a 7-2 log during the regular season and added victories in the State College Conference and the Middle Atlantic Conference in post season competition. The Rams pulled upset victories over LaSalle College and the University of Pennsylvania but lost heartbreakers to powerful Seton Hall early in the season and later to the Hawks of St. Joseph's. Susquehanna, Juniata, Lehigh, Millersville, and Elizabethtown also fell victim to the Ram Harriers. Number one man, Howie Rich, placed fourth in the State Championship and was followed by Randler, Mark Langnas, Terry Hollinger, and Dick Yankowitz who finished 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th respectively. West Chester also copped a fifth place in the IC4A Championship to wind up a very successful season.

Mass participation is the keynote in intramurals and no other event can attract competitors like basketball. Here is a warm-up game in progress.

Volleyball combines agility and coordination with having fun, making it a popular activity. Any student with a desire to play will find his need fulfilled by one of the many activities offered by the intramural program. An award is given to the most successful team at the end of each year.

Intramurals

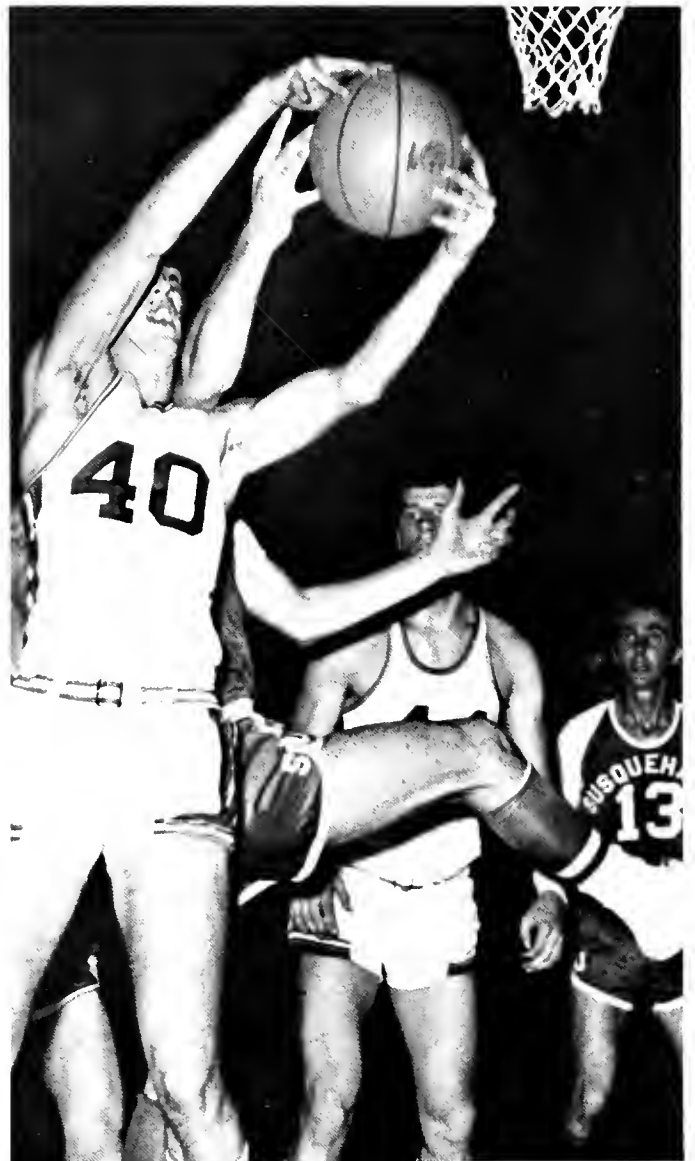

Indoor soccer ranks high on the popular events list and, along with roller hockey, adds variety to the fall and winter intramural program.

Basketball

Dick Kratz (left) drives for a score which helps the Rams upset heavily favored Mansfield on the winners court. Bill Hintze (below) rakes the board as big Ron Hall looks on in action against Susquehanna University. Strong rebounding by Hintze and Hall, along with the shooting of Dick Kratz, play an important role in the success of the West Chester Rams.

The West Chester State Rams' unusual combination of speed and strength has earned them the respect of the teams throughout the State College League. Ralph Rice, Dick Kratz, and Tom Jackson provided the speed that kept the opposition on their toes and took the pressure off the big rebounders. Bill Hintze, "Bird" Hall, and Bill Yelsh have given the Rams the board strength Coach Hopkins has long been seeking. But no team wins games unless they put the ball into the basket. This tough job has been the specialty of Charles Hottenstein during his three years as forward for the Rams. Kratz and Hall have added a strong scoring punch to go along with the outside shooting of "Hotts". The Rams have proved tough to beat on their home court, but winning on the road has been difficult. Victories over Drexel, Mansfield, Kutztown, Susquehanna, Glassboro, and Millersville have highlighted this year's season.

For the first time in three years, the West Chester State College basketball team was able to start a veteran line-up composed of four Seniors and one Junior. The severe lack of experience will plague the team against next season when Ron Hall is the lone returning starter. First row: E. Faulkner, C. Hottenstein, R. Kratz, J. Hovis, R. Rice, T. Jackson, M. Manning, J. Saker. Second row: J. Davis, J. Valore, W. Yelsh, W. Hintze, R. Hall, S. Wakefield, H. Devlin, and Mr. Hopkins.

Swartz, a senior backstroker and freestyler, and Michael, a butterflyer and individual medley man, were relied upon heavily by Coach Ed Norris for their versatility during the past session.

Swimming

In 1965 the West Chester mermen took on one of the toughest schedules in their history. This schedule included such powerhouses as Villanova, Bucknell, LaSalle, and Navy. Leading Coach Norris' squad were Co-captains Paul Lambrakis and John McLaughlin. The Rams hoped to equal or better last season's record of eight wins and four losses. This task was not easy due to the loss of such men as Byron Chandler, Dick Thieler, Lance Stauffer, Rick Field, and John Filak, all stellar performers on the 1963-64 squad. In addition to Lambrakis and McLaughlin, Coach Norris had to rely heavily upon Seniors Ronn Jenkins (diver), Hugh Merkle, Jere Michael, Jerry Snyder, and Mike Swartz. Junior freestyle sprinter Gus Meyer and Sophomores Kevin Daly, Jack Mayer, and Joe Morton also aided in Ram wins. State College champions Paul Lambrakis (200 yard and 500 yard freestyle), John McLaughlin (200 yard butterfly), Ron Jenkins (diving) strove to retain their titles and to aid in bringing the team crown back to West Chester again this year. This goal being attained, it was the fifth straight State College Swimming Championship for Coach Ed Norris since he took over as head coach in 1960.

Skill, quickness, strength, and endurance are the earmarks of a champion wrestler, and Coach Black has met a high degree of success in instilling these characteristics in his grapplers. We salute Mr. Black in his final season.

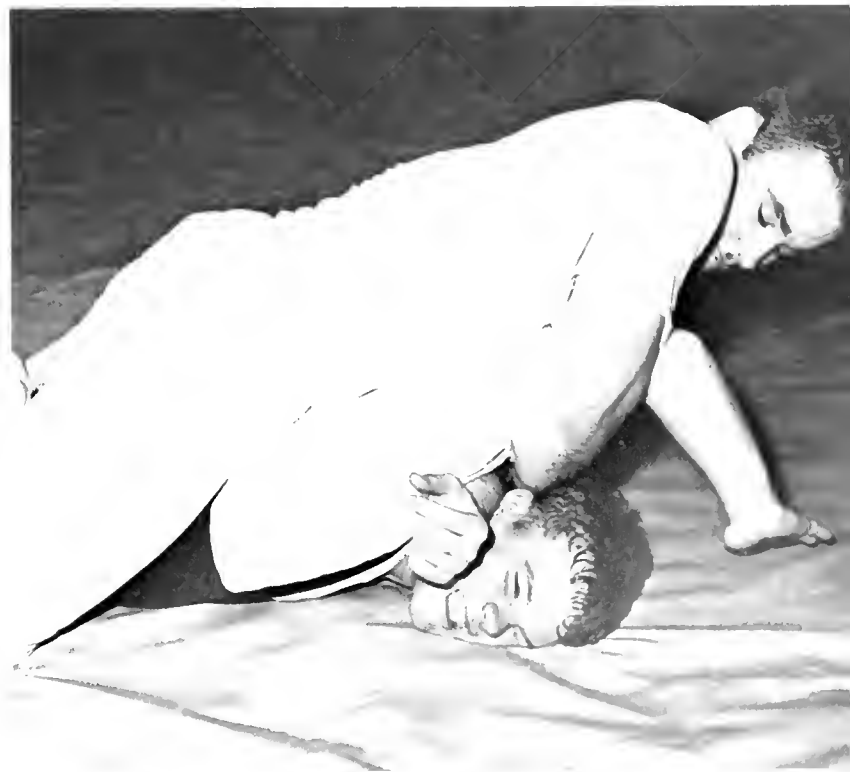

Wrestling

West Chester's grapplers toiled endlessly on the practice mats to overcome a severe lack of varsity experience and make Coach Lloyd Black's final season a fine one. Mr. Black and Coach Robert Long provided the direction and inspiration needed to make West Chester an outstanding constituent of the formidable State College Conference. The Rams faced severe league tests in their meets with Lock Haven, Bloomsburg, and East Stroudsburg. Howie Sage continued to dominate the unlimited division for the Rams, relying on quickness, skill, and a jolting cross-face to subdue his opponents. Bruce Yaeck, Paul Tillmann, and the rest of the West Chester men performed well to make the 1964 season a success.

The Rams scored a victory over Morgan State in their second meet of the year. At right, Bruce Yaeck ties up the legs of his opponent on the mats in Hollinger Field House. One of the few Rams of experience, Yaeck posted an enviable record.

Power played the big part in the Ram's success. Here Bill Schemberg drives one to left center for a two bagger with Dick Kratz leading off first. Power hitters such as Wayne Berger, Larry Szarko, and Dick Kratz made West Chester a threat to score at anytime in the game.

Baseball

The 1964 Rams posted a fine season record of 15 wins and only 5 defeats while keeping up the tradition of winning baseball at West Chester. Good hitting and strong pitching provided a winning combination that opponents found tough to handle all season. Dick Kratz led all the regulars in hitting with a .354 average while Wayne Berger batted in 18 runs. Bill Standen topped the pitching staff with six victories and John Makara added three of his own. Victories over Navy, Temple, Villanova, and Drexel highlighted the team's record, which included losses to Ithica and LaSalle.

Track • Field

West Chester's fine trackmen out-ran, out-jumped, and out-threw six of the eight teams they faced in 1964. The Rams registered overwhelming victories over Lehigh, Bloomsburg, Cheyney, East Stroudsburg, Montclair, and Lincoln. Oddly enough, their most memorable meet was against LaSalle, a team which defeated the Rams 71½ to 67 on a swampy track. The University of Pennsylvania's thinclads were the only other men able to outstrip the Rams during the regular season. In the State College Championship Meet at Millersville, Slippery Rock edged out West Chester for the title by only five points; these two teams easily outdistanced the rest of the competition. The West Chester mile relay quartet of Ralph Lowe, Ralph Rice, Don Moore, and Jim Pfrogner lowered the State College record by four seconds.

Golf

Although the Ram golfers managed to win only 3 victories in 11 matches, almost every match was not decided until the final hole. Victories over LaSalle, Baltimore, and PMC highlighted the season while such notables as Pennsylvania and Villanova dealt losses to our Rams. Craig Reynolds and George Anderson created the nucleus of a strong returning team.

Weightlifting

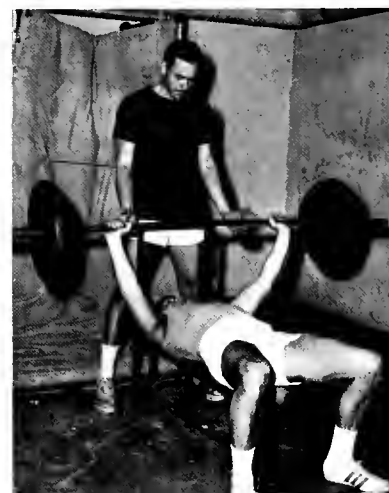

The West Chester Weightlifting club met informally throughout the year. It was composed mainly of athletes who chose to work out during their off season. These men put themselves on a rigid training schedule in order to develop the physical prowess which will enable them to perform better on the field—a fine example of the dedicated spirit of our athletes.

Mohr, Osman, Karabin, and Richardson helped make the season a successful one. Teams such as Navy and Temple graced our schedule.

SERPENTINE 1955

Officers of the Freshman Class, appointed by class advisors and Deans, do their utmost to represent the interests and ideals of their class. In September, the annual avalanche of purple and gold "dinks" descend upon the campus heralding the start of a new school year. Upperclassmen look on with amusement and nostalgia as the wearers of these "dinks" are subjected to rigorous orientation by members of the Junior Cap Crew. The first week consists of many social functions, such as mixers, picnics, movies, and pep rallies, which culminate in an evening of fun, long known as "Frosh Frolics." Emerging together from this fun-filled, but often bewildering week, the Freshman class may look forward to its first year of campus life as a unified group. As activities go into full swing, the Freshmen accept their new responsibilities with enthusiasm. Newly-appointed class officers do their best to fill their positions until such time as regular officers can be elected, while the remainder of the class quickly find their places in the various campus organizations. With this beginning it is certain that members of this class will continue to be a vital force in the life of West Chester.

The salutation, "Buttons, Frosh," could be heard many times during the first week of orientation for the Freshman class. With "dinks" held high, Connie Hanson and Barbara Christy gaily voice a reply.

During the first weeks of their stay, Freshmen have little time to stop and to ponder their positions; but these three men seem to be thoughtfully looking over their new home. Classes, pep rallies, sports events, other activities take most of their time.

Bermuda shorts, sneakers, and "dinks" are the typical attire at most campus mixers. At such dances "Frosh" have opportunity to become acquainted with their classmates

The Big-Little Sister Picnic is an event looked forward to by all upperclass women each year. Here, the Freshman women dress as typical "little sisters" to be judged by a selected panel for their appearance.

Blindfolded and more than a little apprehensive, this girl is officially initiated into the Freshman Class. Supervised by the Cap Crew, "Frosh Frolics" is a full evening of fun for both upperclassmen and Freshmen.

Guitars first, then everyone climbs aboard for a time of fun and song as the Class of 1967 assembles for a country hayride. Congenial spirits and night air combine to make the gay hayride a memorable activity.

Sophomore class members return to campus to haze new Freshmen with bright memories of the preceding year. Throughout the school year, the Sophomore class sponsors dances after football and basketball games and the annual semi-formal dance. A hayride in the fall and a block party in the spring are significant additions to the social activities of the campus. The Class of 1967 contributes its share to the campus and receives the many rewards which stem from close association with fellow students. Memories of this year will linger with the Class of 1967 as they prepare for another year in college.

Local goblins parade to have costumes judged in hopes of winning a prize or two. This Sophomore pumpkin gladly receives a "wide" embrace and a prize, too, for her bright attire.

Arrival of class rings, which is an important event in the Junior year, is celebrated by a Ring Dance where a replica of the ring can be seen.

Standing in front of Main Dormitory are this year's Junior Class officers. They are T. Deily, President; C. Shaeffer, Vice-President; S. Klinger, Secretary; and F. Fimiano, Treasurer. Events of this class include getting their class rings, having a class show, and several dances. All are coordinated by the officers and advisors.

Members of the Junior class welcome dubious incoming Frosh with an intensified program of Fresh Regs, mixers, a bon fire, and a hootenamy. Frosh Frolics, conducted by the class Cap Crew, officially initiates incoming Freshmen. The Class of 1966 celebrates the arrival of class rings with the Junior Ring Dance, an event which begins a year full of activity. The Juniors participate enthusiastically in all phases of college life. The class also sponsors such memorable events as the Sadie Hawkins Dance, Casino Night, the Junior Class Show, and Junior Prom. This class functions as an integral segment of the college, making new significant contributions to the improvement of the institution. Working closely with advisors and active leaders, the entire group displays the brand of school spirit so clearly associated with this college since its founding. Juniors look eagerly toward their senior year.

Bob Choate, one of the students who entertain Freshmen at a hootenanny on the South Campus during Frosh Regs. is shown plaintively singing a familiar folk ballad. This is the second year that a hootenanny has been used popularly as part of the Freshman welcome-program of introduction to college life.

Ordering class rings is the special event which highlights the Junior year. After careful selection of stone and style, Juniors celebrate arrival of the rings at the Junior Ring Dance.

Holding several of the cap crew hats and watching for unsuspecting Freshmen is Janet Luff, Co-chairman of Frosh Regs. The Freshmen are welcomed with both her enthusiasm and warm smile.

Sue Klinger, Donna Borsch, and Barb Fornwalt, seated comfortably in a convertible before the Rampage parade, are the lovely girls selected to represent the Junior Class as candidates for 1964 Rampage Queen.

A booth erected in the Quad is the center of this year's Cap Crew activities, and many of the jokes are on them as well as the Freshmen. The microphone is used to page wayward Freshmen who have forgotten their dinks or name tags.

Five members of the Junior Class elected to "Who's Who" this year are: T. Juenger, T. Deily, S. Spink, B. Robertson, and N. Blagbrough. This is an honor conferred only on those students who have made outstanding contributions to colleges.

Vie Karabin, a Junior Phys. Ed., takes time out from his student teaching chores at the Demonstration School to display some gymnastic skill on the lawn in back of Phillips Memorial. Fall leaves and Indian Summer weather may prompt Vie's antics.

Tensely watching an exciting play on the football field is perky Sue Hoover, one of the enthusiastic cheerleaders. She looks happy, so West Chester must be scoring another hard-won touchdown for the Rams.

Adhesive tape, thumb tacks, fake grass, potted plants, fountains, and lots of skill combine to change the Field House into a World's Fair.

Is there a bounty on the devil's head? It appears so from the look in her big eyes.

John Reeder basks in the sun outside Recitation Hall, catching up on all the interesting news of the day.

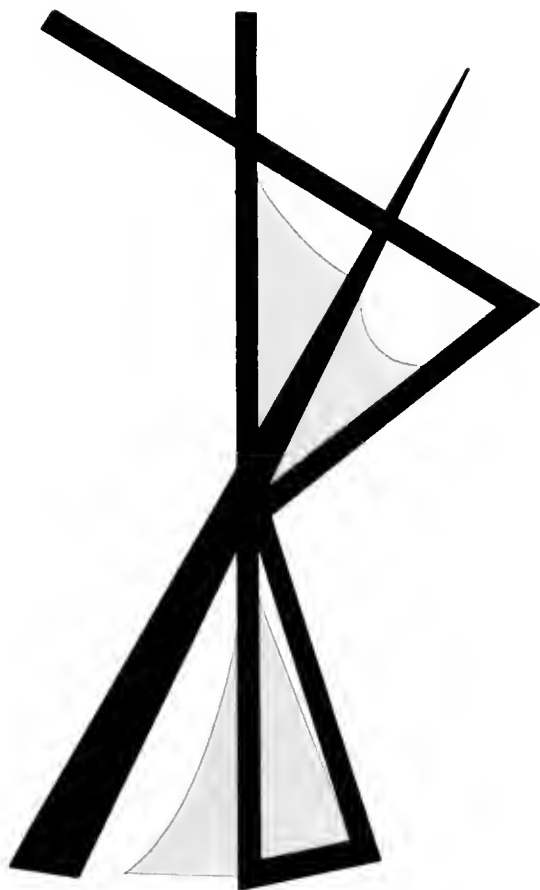

Carrying laundry bag, suitcase, and textbooks, and receiving gazes of others, two students leave campus to spend the weekend elsewhere. This is a typical scene which can be observed on any Friday here.

Another Senior class leaves West Chester as alumni and alumnae to join past graduates in a realm of memories. Although their college days are now ended, graduates are marked by too many individual characteristics to be forgotten by those who follow after them in school. Their names will appear before the eyes of many in years to come, for they are the future. It is hoped that, through time, these graduates will go forth to reach goals even higher than those obtained in the past. Through educational and social experiences, they will work for humanity and create a better nation and world.

The annual Rampage parade includes a variety of floats and walking groups representing campus organizations. Each group selects a title related to this year's main theme of "World's Fair Weekend." Shown here is the Senior Class float with the symbolic unisphere among the other symbols of peace.

Providing competition for Count Basie during the Rampage Weekend dance in Ehringer Gym are the Statesmen led by Rip Kline. Here, Rip swings out with a mean trombone solo.

These coeds are shown decorating McCarthy Hall as part of all the festivities and contests of Golden Rampage Weekend.

Officially Speaking

Senior Weekend, the Dinner-Dance, the January Cordial, and all of the other memorable events of the year will later be remembered by members of the Senior Class as they look back with wonder at the speed with which their four years at college have passed. Four years ago, those in the Class of 1965 enthusiastically donned their freshman dinks and loyally formed a working unit. They sailed through Frosh Frolics and began to plan their next years at college. Highlighting these three years were the Sophomore Semi-formal, the Junior Ring Dance, and the Junior Prom. During these years, they also watched Dr. Earl Sykes become the President of the college, new buildings being erected, and other changes made on campus. As the campus enlarged, so the class expanded in interest and sincerity for college life. They excelled in many areas and were responsible for many new innovations. As they take positions in various occupational fields in society, graduates of the Class of 1965 will always reflect on these past four years.

Many responsibilities were dealt with and many activities planned by the four class officers who are Rndy Karkosak, President; Steve Brotschul, Vice-President; Carol Flynn, Secretary; and Bonnie Wood, Treasurer. These very active students, after being elected in the spring of 1964, worked to make this a memorable and profitable year, and loyally attempted to help the entire school as they planned and coordinated the scores of activities held by the Class of 1965.

The men and women pictured on these pages are among the outstanding leaders on this campus. By virtue of their service to their school and community, these students have been honored by being selected to represent West Chester in the national publication Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, an organization encompassing over 775 institutions of higher learning. A committee composed of administrators, faculty members, and Senior students selected these twenty-eight students, basing their appraisals on each of the following criteria: scholarship, leadership, citizenship, character, and, to a degree, potential. We offer our congratulations to these fine representatives of our college.
